MP'S APPEAL AFTER SECOND CARE HOME DEATH

FLASHBACK: Star, August 11

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon has called on Essex County Council to take over control of the privately-run care home at the centre of a police investigation.

Mr Halfon made his plea this week after a second resident of the Partridge Care Centre died almost two weeks after being admitted to hospital following a suspected insulin overdose.

The 80-year-old woman was one of three residents taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital on August 3. One of them – an 89-year-old woman from Waltham Abbey – died three days later while the other, described by police as an elderly man, remains in a “serious” condition.

It is understood that detectives are investigating the possibility that all three may have been given insulin overdoses at the home in Partridge Road.

Mr Halfon told the Star: “Tragically there has been a second death of an elderly resident at the Partridge Care Centre.

“Given this development I am now calling for Essex County Council to take emergency measures to take control of the home so that no more lives are put at risk.”

A 36-year-old Enfield woman, believed to be a care worker at the facility, has been arrested and bailed in connection with the investigation, although police have so far refused to comment on the offences she is alleged to have committed.

Detectives are also looking into a number of “historic complaints” regarding the care and treatment of residents living at the home run by Loughborough-based Rushcliffe Care.

A police spokeswoman said this week: “The investigation, which is being carried out by a team of detectives from the Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate, is focusing on the circumstances leading to the three residents being taken to hospital.

“Inquiries are now focused on the long-term standards of care in the home regarding medicines given to residents.

She added: “Detectives are also considering the wider care and treatment of residents at the home as well as a number of historic complaints. Investigators have spoken to family members

Police plan cuts to station open hours

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE opening hours of Harlow police station could be cut as part of a plan to save £2.5m.

Under proposals announced this week by the Chief Constable of Essex Jim Barker-McCardle, the opening hours of nine "core" stations currently operating 24 hours a day – including Harlow – will be reduced by a third.

It would mean the police station in Crown Gate would be open to the public from 8am to midnight.

Police chiefs have given an assurance that officers will still be in use 24 hours a day with out-of-hours contact direct to the force information room provided through a telephone line outside the building.

The force said the move comes after consultation with the public indicated the demand for front counter services at stations was "very low".

"The best way in which we can provide front counter services to the public at the same time as providing value for money and keeping as many police officers working in neighbourhood policing as possible has been very carefully considered," said a police spokesman.

"We have listened to the views of the people of Essex and we will ensure that our core stations will remain open during the times when they are most used."

Chief Inspector Ben Hodder, district commander for Harlow, added: "Under the new blueprint we are also proposing to increase the number of police officers in neighbourhood policing teams by around 12 per cent.

"Our neighbourhood policing teams will continue to be highly visible and to engage directly with the members of the communities they serve."

But Harlow MP Robert Halfon branded the decision a "major mistake".

"Whilst I understand the reduction of hours in smaller police stations, I think it is a major mistake not to have 24-hour access to the police station in a busy town like Harlow, especially at weekends," he said.

"On the plus side I have been given strong assurances that Harlow police patrols will continue 24-hours a day and that all crime hotlines and police contact numbers will stay open 24-hours a day, too."

Roger Watson, vice-chairman of the Essex Police Federation which represents rank-and-file officers, said: "We're in the middle here because it doesn't affect police officer numbers."

"However, the Chief Constable has got to save £41m and this is one way of saving £2.5m so we've got to be supportive of him."

The plans are part of a wider review which aims to roll out a "new policing model" throughout Essex to help the constabulary achieve their overall target saving of £41m by 2014.

The proposals are subject to consultation with staff through the public service trade union Unison, with a decision expected towards the end of November.

and residents at the care centre as part of their ongoing inquiries."

The 117-bed care centre, which specialises in Alzheimer's care, was awarded only one star following an inspection by the Care Quality Commission last year.

The home is now under review by both the CQC and Essex County Council, which has been providing extra help and support to the home as the police investigation continues.

After refusing to comment for the past two weeks, a spokeswoman for Rushcliffe Care said on Tuesday: "We are actively working with our partner agencies to ensure the health and well-being of our resident service users at Partridge Care Centre. This is our paramount focus."

Ventilator fundraisers smash their target

CRITICALLY ill patients with respiratory disorders will now have a greater chance of survival after Princess Alexandra Hospital took delivery of a new life-support machine following a series of fundraising events.

It was almost two years ago when staff from the hospital's intensive therapy unit first began their campaign to raise £47,500 for the high frequency oscillating ventilator.

Since then they have received support from a number of local companies, organisations, schools and individuals as well as the hospital's own League of Friends.

Such was the success of their efforts that a total of £63,878 was raised.

Senior sister Sarah Jones, who led the campaign, said: "It is a tremendous achievement from a huge number of individuals which will benefit a significant amount of people locally. "We're so thrilled that so much has been raised that we are going to continue fundraising to purchase further equipment for the department."

Teen gang intimidated train passengers to steal phones

A GANG of youths who stole the mobile phones of train passengers travelling between Liverpool Street and Bishop's Stortford have been sent to a young offenders institution.

The four teenagers from Harlow, Roydon and Waltham Abbey carried out five robberies or attempted robberies over a five-week period. Among their victims were a solicitor, a travel agent and two students.

Harley Victor (19), of Fold Croft, Harlow, was convicted by a jury at Chelmsford Crown Court of two robberies and one attempted robbery, charges which he denied. He was sentenced to four years.

Andrew Arthur (18) also of Fold Croft, was found guilty of one offence of attempted robbery and sentenced to 12 months.

Verold Payne (18), of Temple Mead,

Roydon, admitted three robberies and two attempted robberies and was sentenced to a total of four years. Aiden Blackwood (19), from Waltham Abbey, admitted one robbery and was sentenced to 18 months.

Passing sentence, Judge Rodger Hayward Smith said the gang used the same method each time, targeting young men travelling alone in empty or nearly empty carriages.

They would start a conversation with their target and then demand they hand over their phones as the others would surround the victim and intimidate them.

"A threat was made that a weapon would be used or reference would be made to what would appear to the victim to be a weapon concealed in clothing, although no weapon was ever produced or used," said the judge. "However, the victim was not to know that."

Pedal pals ready to cycle across America

FROM the glamour of Los Angeles to the palm coasts of Florida via the caverns of the Mojave Desert, two university friends will soon be embarking on a 3,500-mile coast-to-coast bike ride for charity.

Rob Norris (24), of Park Hill, Old Harlow, and Mark Webster (24), from Ormskirk near Liverpool, are undertaking the mammoth 90-day trip from LA to Miami to raise money for three causes close to their hearts. Riding in aid of the Alzheimer's Society, the Motor Neurone Disease Association and Feed the Children, the pair will set off next month and plan to cycle continuously for the following three months.

"Both Mark and I have spent a lot of time in America over the last few years and have been talking about doing a trip like this for some time now," said Rob, who works as a law costs draftsman. "We wanted to combine the trip with raising money for charity and picked these ones because of our own personal experiences with them."

"My grandmother suffered dementia before passing away two years ago, while Motor Neurone Disease took Mark's grandfather when he was a child. "We have both also worked a lot with children over the years so were keen to split anything we raise between the three causes."

Rob said that although they kept fit through their shared love of football, their experiences of cycling are limited.

"We have both only really started cycling over the past few months and have to train alone as we live so far away from each other, which is tough," he said.

"I know it will be hard going, especially at the start when we leave LA and have to cross the desert. But I am confident we will make it and just want to get on with it now."

He added: "I just hope as many people as possible will support us. Anything donated will be hugely appreciated, even if it is just a couple of pounds as it all adds up!"

All welcome at disability event

HARLOW charities are joining forces to run a summer fete and awareness evening about disability in the community.

More than 15 local organisations are taking part in the event, which is being organised by and in aid of Mike's Den Harlow Phab.

The aim is to highlight the support available for disabled people in the community. As well as information booths, there will also be numerous games and activity stalls, a bouncy castle and refreshment stands.

"Whether you are directly affected by a disability or not, this will be a fun evening for all the family that will help bring the whole community together," said organiser Neil Crouch.

The event takes place on Wednesday (August 31) from 7-9pm at St Stephen's Church in Bush Fair.

Meet the cats

AN animal shelter caring for homeless cats is holding an open day this weekend.

The Chestnut Cat Sanctuary at Thornwood Common is inviting people to meet its cats and kittens, explore the facilities and find out more about the responsibilities of owning an animal.

There will also be face-painting, homemade cakes to buy, games and bric-a-brac stalls.

"Whether you are thinking about getting a cat or just want to come and meet some of our animals it will be a nice family afternoon that helps to raise money for the shelter," said manager Gill Beard.

The open day takes place on Bank Holiday Monday. To find out more, visit www.chestnutcatsanctuary.co.uk.

New Home Start recruits ready to work with families

YOUNG families struggling to cope with the stress of daily life will soon be able to seek support from 12 new Home Start volunteers.

The Harlow branch of the national organisation, which supports local families in difficult circumstances, took on the new recruits in order to extend its services in the town.

The volunteers had to complete an intensive 10-week training course to qualify for the position. Each will be matched with a Harlow family to provide the emotional and practical support needed to avoid breakdowns in home life.

"Home Start believes parents have the key role in creating a secure childhood for their families," said family support co-ordinator Julie Gulrajani. "It's just that sometimes we need a bit of extra help."

"That is what our new volunteers will be there to do. As well as the skills they learnt through their training, each of them have their own parenting experience so will be ready to advise and support not just a voluntary worker, but also as a friend."

The Home Start Harlow group now has a team of 49 volunteers helping 52 families in the area. They also run a group every Thursday morning from 9-11.30am at the Latton Bush Centre where families meet together and share encouragement.

"I am very confident our new volunteers will do a fantastic job," added Ms Gulrajani. "They are all really lovely people who have chosen to give up their time to help local families develop a stable home life which in turn helps to make children's future so much brighter."

For more information about Home Start Harlow, visit www.homestartharlow.org.

Help homeless

A HARLOW-based charity helping the homeless has appealed for more volunteers to help it in its work.

Harlow Chocolate Run needs helpers willing to join its evening shifts at shelters in London and Essex where they pass on donated food, drinks and clothing and spend time talking with residents.

Anyone interested can find out more at a meeting next Wednesday (August 31) at the Great Parndon Community Centre off Abercrombie Way starting at 7.30pm, or call Mick Granger on (01279) 439288.

Lottery winners

THE winner of the £1,000 prize in the weekly St Clare Hospice lottery draw on Friday, August 19 is ticket holder 432852, who lives in Hornchurch.

Public meeting over cemetery improvements

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE company that has taken over responsibility for running Harlow's council-owned cemetery and crematorium is to hold a public forum to discuss its plans.

The Westerleigh Group, which was awarded a 25-year-lease to operate the facilities at Parndon Wood, said it wanted to give people the chance to express their opinions on its ideas for improvements.

The company, which pledged to invest £3m into a refurbishment of the buildings and land when they took over on July 1, have so far focused on restoring the grounds and have also extended funeral service times from 30 to 45 minutes.

Managing director Richard Evans said it was important to consult the public on the development plans.

"There is understandably a lot of interest in how Harlow's cemetery and crematorium is developed and we are keen to ensure the public get a chance to express their opinions on the key issues affecting the service, especially at a time when we are planning our improvement programme," he said.

RICHARD EVANS: "We are keen to ensure the public get a chance to express their opinions on the key issues"

"The first public forum is just the beginning and a meeting of local funeral directors and ministers is planned around the same time to show them our draft plans for refurbishing the crematorium.

Mr Evans added: "We are planning this major investment to modernise Parndon Wood over the next few years so it is vital we get it right to ensure the best possible service is provided."

Tony Hall, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for environment, said: "This is good news for customers and is something that we have asked for to ensure they can regularly feedback on the running of the service."

"Westerleigh have ambitious plans for improving the facilities and we think it's important that customers are involved in this and are given their opportunity to have their say."

"Since the takeover by Westerleigh we have been receiving lots of positive feedback from relatives on maintenance of the grounds and facilities."

Cllr Hall said the authority would be represented at the meeting as part of the monitoring of how the new arrangements are going.

The public forum will take place in the chapel at Parndon Wood on Tuesday, September 13, starting at 5pm.

Woman hurt as bag thief attacks with screwdriver

A WOMAN was attacked with a screwdriver by a thief who stole her handbag.

The incident took place at 3.10pm last Wednesday as the victim was walking along the cycle track from Partridge Road leading to Bush Fair.

She was approached by a man on a bike. He asked her for directions to Bush Fair and then demanded she hand over her bag, assaulting her with a screwdriver causing minor injuries.

The robber, who rode off in the direction of Bush Fair, is described as white, aged 20-23, 5ft 8ins tall, of slim build with dark shoulder-length hair. He was wearing a dark blue hoodie and dark blue jeans.

Detective Constable Kev Winn, of Harlow police, said: "This was a particularly nasty unprovoked attack in broad daylight."

Boxing bash cash to help brave Rae

A COMMUNITY boxing bash promises to pack a punch for charity this weekend when local fighters glove up to help raise money for a brave Harlow tot suffering from a life-limiting condition.

A cut of the profits from Sunday's family-friendly event at Harlow Stadium will be put towards building a wheelchair-accessible bedroom and bathroom for Harlow toddler Rae White (4), who suffers from a rare genetic muscle-wasting condition.

Event organiser Leo Roget said: "We really wanted to do something to help Rae who, despite all her health problems, is a very bright, clever, cheeky girl with a wicked sense of humour!"

"We'll be running a charity raffle on the night and making a donation to her mum so she can make Rae's life that little bit more comfortable."

In addition to the bouts there will be guest appearances from professional boxers and live music from four different local acts.

The event starts at 6pm and tickets cost £20 (£50 for VIP seats and table service). They can be purchased in advance from Ripped Gym, UK Gold Tanning Salon and CM20 Barbers - all based in Wych Elm - or by calling 07594 297939. They can also be bought on the door.

I've applied for 5,000 jobs but I'm still out of work

Report by VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FORMER IT professional who has failed to find work despite applying for more than 5,000 jobs has launched an online petition to highlight discrimination against older jobseekers.

Kevin Forbes, of Bentley Drive, Harlow, lost his position with a large banking firm in the City in 2005 after 33 years of service.

He has since applied for 5,172 jobs but is still no closer to finding employment.

The 57-year-old, who began his fairness for all ages in employment campaign almost two years ago, said he hopes his petition on the Government's e-petition website will further highlight the problems being faced by the over 50s.

If it attracts 100,000 supporters it will be considered for debate by MPs.

"Although my main campaign is to increase awareness about age discrimination against older people trying to find work, my aim with the petition is to initiate a debate about the necessary reforms needed for all age groups," said Mr Forbes.

"Significantly it is about longevity in employment. Whether you are about to start your career or are half way through it, there needs to be stability and a clear understanding of what to expect and what is expected of you."

Mr Forbes, who has been working with government agencies as well as other independent organisations to promote the issue, said he believed age discrimination laws in the UK had little effect.

"I never planned to be unemployed from the age of 51," he said. "I was a senior worker who had years of experience and knowledge behind me and yet six years after being made redundant I am still unemployed and know a lot of people in a similar situation."

"A lot of experienced workers are being pushed out of the system which is not only unfair but will also ultimately have a serious impact on the whole economy. For everyone's sake it is high time that some balance was brought back into the realm of employment."

Mr Forbes, who also recently submitted a similar petition to the European Parliament, said it was important that as many people as possible support the campaign.

"I would urge anyone who has been discriminated against because of their age, or who knows someone who has been affected, to sign the petition," he added.

"It does not matter how old you are or whether you are employed or not. I believe you owe it to yourselves to support this petition to give both you and your families the best chance of security and financial stability for the future."

Sex pest avoids jail term

A MAN man who followed two young girls around Harlow town centre offering them cash for sex has been spared jail.

Musheer Kamram (32) was instead given six-month sentence suspended for two years when he appeared at Chemsford Crown Court on Monday.

Kamram, from Kingsbury in north west London, was also banned from visiting towns in Essex by car unless accompanied by an adult for a period of six months and banned from unsupervised contact with girls under the age of 16.

He had been found guilty at an earlier hearing of two charges of causing or inciting a child to engage in sexual activity by offering money.

The court was told Kamram offered £5 to the two girls aged 12 and 13 in return for sex. They reported the incident to a cleaner at a public toilet who alerted security.

Charity soccer match nets thousands for St Margaret's breast cancer unit

A CROWD of almost 700 people headed to Harlow Town FC's stadium on Sunday for a charity football match.

The fundraising event in aid of the breast cancer unit at St Margaret's Hospital, Epping, saw a team of former Arsenal professionals and celebrities secure a 4-2 victory against a side put together by the match organisers.

As well as the football there was a rodeo bull, bouncy castle and other activities. There was also a raffle with a top prize of tickets to a Tottenham Hotspur game.

Event organiser Amana Lunness said the day had been a huge success. "There was a brilliant turnout and we expect to have raised thousands for St Margaret's," she said.

"We were so fortunate to get such great weather and even though our team lost and a few of the expected celebrities cancelled on the day, everyone seemed to have fun and we got a lot of really good feedback." She added: "We would like to say a big thank you to everyone who turned up or gave up their time to help make this such a successful event. We are really looking forward to the next one now."

Trio snatch man's cash and phone

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after a man was attacked and robbed in Harlow woodland.

The incident happened between 9.30am and 10am last Wednesday as the victim walked through a wooded area off Third Avenue.

As he was heading towards Willowfield he was approached from behind by three men who pulled his jacket hood across his face.

They then searched his pockets and stole cash and a mobile phone before running off in the direction of Passmores School.

The only description the victim could give of his assailants was that two of them were wearing black Nike trainers and the third white Adidas trainers. However, police want to talk to a man who allowed him to use his mobile phone immediately after the robbery.

Investigating officer PC Jody Greenfield said: "A man unconnected with the incident allowed the victim to use his mobile phone. I would ask that he contact me as he may have a better description of the suspects."

Anyone with any information about the incident should contact PC Jody Greenfield at Harlow police station on 101 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Joy as students

BEAMING smiles and jumps of joy heralded another great year for Harlow's A-level students as they collected their results on Thursday morning.

With more pressure on students following the Government's decision to raise university tuition fees from next year, the demand to make the grade was intense and the signs showed as the youngsters queued nervously for their certificates.

But most needn't have worried as outstanding provisional results were achieved throughout the town, including a record-breaking 99.6 per cent A-E grade pass rate at Harlow College, with 77 per cent achieving A*-C grades.

Delighted college principal Colin Hindmarch described the results as "remarkable".

"These are record results for us," he told the Star. "Our remarkable pass rate of 99.6 per cent mirrors our success rate which is also 99.6 per cent, showing that this isn't a college for dropouts."

"Our AS results are also record breaking and a cause for celebration with a 97 per cent pass rate. You can't get your A2s without passing ASs and once again we've shown that if you're serious about A-levels you should come here."

St Marks West Essex Catholic School students posted a 96 per cent overall pass rate, with 55 per cent attaining grades A*-C).

Deputy headteacher John Taylor said the "vast majority" had secured places at their first-choice university.

"This cohort of students has produced some stunning results and they are delighted with their achievements," he said.

SIMONE WEBB (17) may have been one of the youngest sitting her exams at Harlow College this year but she still came out tops when she achieved three A*s in history, English literature and maths as well as an A in politics. Her hard work has earned her a place at Oxford to study politics, philosophy and economics. "I've had a great time at Harlow College and my teachers have been absolutely brilliant," she said. "I am really excited about Oxford and hope to eventually go into politics."

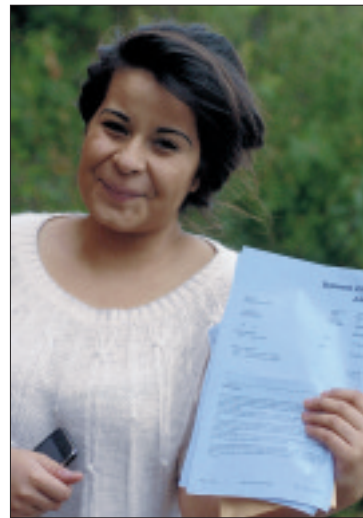

JAMES BAKER (18) was relieved to get the UCAS points he needed for a place at Canterbury University to study history. He got an A in the history, Bs in business and media and an E in AS economics. "I am really pleased," he said. "I know university will help get me further in life and hope to one day work in the City in insurance or finance."

BILLIE-JO BLACKETT (19), who only returned from a month-long research project in Madagascar last week, is going from the jungle to the Welsh peaks of Bangor after gaining an A in environmental science, B in geography, and C in biology. She will be studying applied terrestrial and marine ecology and hopes to base her future career around conservation work. "I couldn't have asked for better tuition, it was excellent," she said.

SAHAR KHATIRI (19), a budding journalist, is one step closer to achieving her aspiration after gaining the ABB grades needed to study the subject at City University. Sahar, who sat exams in sociology, English literature and media at Harlow College, said her ambition is to work on the The Independent. "I never thought I would get in, I thought I had no chance!" she said. "It is amazing. All that hard work really paid off!"

ARNOLD WORTON (18) plans to do an Open University course studying the same subjects he did for his A-levels. He was awarded a B in environmental sciences, C in maths and C in psychology. "Doing an Open University course will mean that I can carry on working at the same time," he said. "My decision was partly affected by the university fees but also because it just works much better for my personal circumstances."

ONYINYE AKPENYI (19), an aspiring neurosurgeon who only came to Harlow from Nigeria two years ago, was awarded A* in chemistry and physics and A in biology and maths. "I thought it would be really difficult to settle in but the support I have received from Harlow College has been brilliant," she said. "I am now taking a gap year to sit additional exams as I would love to go to Cambridge to continue my studies."

achieve their level best

"Some have overcome tremendous personal difficulties and challenges to achieve their result and their achievements are all the more spectacular in light of this."

Pupils at Leventhorpe School in Sawbridgeworth were also celebrating after achieving the highest overall pass rate and individual point score in its history, with 36 A* grades and 111 A grades.

Headteacher Jon Locke said: "This has ensured virtually all students have gained places on university courses or to progress to employment."

"We are thrilled they have done so well and continued our upward trend with examination performance. Clearly the results are down to incredibly hard work by the students but also to great teaching and the on-going support of parents."

Essex county councillor Stephen Castle, cabinet member for education, added his congratulations to all the county's students on their hard work.

"There will be many students looking forward to beginning university or continuing their education in other ways and there will also be lots of people looking forward to entering the world of work," he said.

"Whatever their plans, I want to wish them all the very best of luck for the future."

Nationally, the A-Level pass rate rose for the 29th year running to 97.8 per cent, while the percentage of students being awarded A* and A grades remained unchanged for the first time in 15 years.

Alternative use for 'lost' hospital beds

SIR, Many of your readers will be sympathetic to Barbara Burge's excellent letter on the PAH bed closures and concur with her with regard to Mr Halfon's total lack of commitment in at least trying to get them retained (Star, August 11).

But never fear Barbara, all is not entirely lost. I would like to suggest to the trust that the "lost" beds be donated to the refugee centre that will inevitably have to be set up to accommodate those families who, because a family member has been involved in the rioting, will have any benefits they are on stopped and be turned out of their council houses and on to the streets.

After the searing images of the rioting which have been relayed around the planet, the image of councils turning some of their poorest and most disadvantaged citizens, whatever their faults, into refugees is just what the country needs!

As for the Government's insistence that police cuts will not affect police numbers (not to mention morale), it has to convince not only the police themselves and the country but – with the Olympics less than a year away – the world as well.

David Ives
Bishopsfield, Harlow

It seems 'Big Society' doesn't apply to some

SIR, On April 1 Harlow Pensioners' Action Association presented Harlow Council with a 600-signature petition to keep open public toilets. This was signed by quite a number of young mothers who were worried about their children.

I do realise the council has to save money so I thought the simple solution would be for them to take up Councillor Joel Charles' plea for everyone to join the 'Big Society' and volunteer to give up their expenses while this financial recession is on.

The response I got to that was a deafening silence. I was just told how costly it would be to keep open the toilets.

I am writing this because it seems that from the Government down, all the people who are supposed to serve the community want us to volunteer to run libraries, care in the community, paddling pools etc for no wages but knowing you are doing something good for your community. Yet when they are asked to do the same they run for cover.

What's that old saying? What's good for the goose is good for the gander. Only it doesn't seem to apply to our elected councillors or Members of Parliament.

Les Coben (HPAA)
Wych Elm, Harlow

Lapdogs at the wheel

SIR, A strange new phenomenon has been spotted in Harlow – drivers with dogs sitting on their laps.

Twice in the past week I have seen this. It would be interesting to know where the law stands on this.

Talking of driving, how is it that people have been fined for eating whilst at the wheel but smoking seems to be permitted? And mobile phones? I've lost count of the number of idiots trying to negotiate turnings and roundabouts with one hand. There's no excuse for it, everyone knows it's illegal but some just can't be parted from their comfort blankets.

Florence Rayment

Evidence of honesty

SIR, I lost my wallet somewhere in the Church Langley area last Sunday morning. I am very grateful to the unidentified gentleman who delivered it intact to Harlow police station the same day.

Only a few days previously the national news was full of stories of arson, vandalism and theft, so I am pleased to record evidence of honesty and social responsibility in the Harlow area.

David Greene
Old Orchard, Harlow

It's important to attract traders

SIR, In your article about the new "fun flowerpots" in the Market Square (Star, August 18) it is implied that the pots were paid for by Harlow Council.

My understanding of the situation is that the funding for the makeover was arranged by Harlow Renaissance and that no contribution from the council was necessary.

For myself, I think these pots are fun and really brighten up the area, although the thought of meeting the Bill and Ben who might inhabit such big pots is one I'd rather not contemplate!

Seriously, though – it is vitally important for the future of our town centre that we follow up this makeover. We must attract more traders to the town.

A series of events to attract the public to Market Square is a must. This could not only get more market traders interested but it might also mean that some of the empty shops in the area could find tenants, thus improving the retail offer in this part of town.

I was very pleased when Stockland left town, even though their plan remains. I fervently hope that future plans for this area of the town centre will incorporate Market Square as it is – but with some refurbishment of the existing buildings.

Ideally I would prefer it if there was an overall plan for the town centre instead of the current piecemeal approach. But let the flowerpots remain.

John Curry
Old Orchard, Harlow

SIR, As an ex-Harlow resident I was appalled to read that nearly £65,000 has been spent on giant flowerpots with trees in Market Square.

I would not argue the area needs updating but to put those things in at that cost is perhaps as big a mistake as putting those ugly permanent stalls in all those years ago.

Russell Perrin is quoted as saying that they are "fun and unusual". I would like him to explain how a flowerpot can be fun. If he took a trip to the Trafford Centre or most of the other malls around the country he would see something similar, so unusual? I don't think so.

The article also stated that they will not be permanent and that they will only be in place for three or four years.

This is surely yet another sign that Harlow Council is out of touch with the wishes of residents and that serious consideration should be given to the regeneration of that rundown part of the town centre in order to increase trade and make it an area in which people wish to spend time.

Uni certificates are returned to grateful owner

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THERE was a happy ending to a recent article in Nostalgia about the discovery of some university certificates in the back of a wardrobe.

Regular readers of this page will recall the a story of how former Star editor Bridget McAlpine found the certificates belonging to a Mr Eric Alfred John Secretan while doing a spot of spring cleaning.

The artefacts were in the frame of a built-in wardrobe at her home in Vicarage Wood which she believed was previously occupied by the Secretan family.

A few days after the article appeared in print, Bridget's suspicions were proved correct when a delighted 86-year-old Eric Secretan called to enquire after his missing documents.

"I was so surprised to receive the call from my cousin Ann (Wren) telling me that my certificates had been found," he said. "I knew they were missing but just thought they were buried deep somewhere around the house. I am absolutely over the moon." Mr Secretan, who now lives in Brantham, Manningtree, said he moved to the house in

FLASHBACK: Nostalgia, August 4

Vicarage Wood around 1950 with his family when he was about 25 years old.

"I have some very good memories of Harlow," he said. "I was working as a senior lecturer in engineering at Loughton College at the time when I did my masters in metallurgical quality control. They used to let me have release to do the degree.

"I remember it being really hard work, juggling the degree around my job and family life. So it was a great achievement when I finally finished, one very personal to my family."

Retiring from the teaching profession at the age of 60 in 1985, Mr Secretan says he has been enjoying a slower pace of life ever since.

"I really treasure having these certificates returned to me and sincerely thank Ms McAlpine for not just throwing them away when she found them," he added. "It really is wonderful and was quite an emotional reunion for me."

DO YOU REMEMBER: Firefighters who saved dog

WERE you part of the Harlow White Watch team who saved Sam the Samoyed from a watery grave back in February 1981?

This picture from a newspaper report about the daring rescue shows the firefighters with the lucky pooch after he was pulled to safety from the icy depths of the Fold Croft pond. Owner Colin Nash told the paper Sam had run straight across frozen pond while out on a walk and fell straight through the middle. A passerby called the fire brigade who came along just in the nick of time.

Sawbridgeworth resident Margaret Courtenay, who kept a copy of the piece because her nephew John Foster is in the photo, said: "I remember Tony Turnbull, the firefighter facing the dog, was the real hero on the day. He was the one who jumped in the freezing water to save Sam."

According to the report Sam had been in the water for almost half-an-hour before help arrived. But luckily sub-officer Tony didn't hesitate once he got to the scene and smashed his way across the ice to pull the dog out, even despite not being able to swim!

"I always thought it was a really great photo of them all with the dog," added Margaret. "It is always nice to read a story with a happy ending!"

● Do you recognise any of the firefighters in the photo? Write to Nostalgia, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

➔ An escaped prisoner who tried to shield his face when he saw a police car was recaptured near Harlow. The 22-year-old man, who was serving an 18-month sentence for assault, had escaped from High Point Prison in Haverhill, Suffolk, and was travelling south in a taxi when police spotted him.

➔ Harlow Council has been criticised for allowing strippers at stag parties held at its social club. Members of staff at the club in Fishers Hatch said they felt it was inappropriate for councillors to support something that represented women as sex objects.

➔ 'Sir' Bob Geldof has been invited to officially open Harlow College. The informal request came following a consultation between staff, pupils and governing bodies on who they thought would be the best person to ask. Although the college has already been in use for two years, it has never held an official opening ceremony.

➔ After four attempts at winning the Butlins Glamorous Grandmother title, Sandra Parker, of Blackbush Springs, has finally achieved her goal. After finishing runner-up for three years, the 38-year-old finally scooped the top trophy during her latest holiday in Skegness.

THE NURSERY ROOMS It was all fun and games when youngsters were treated to some extra recreational activities as part of the Harlow nursery's celebrations for National Play Day. A bouncy castle and ball pit, an arts and crafts 'messy' area and biscuit decorating kept the children busy and entertained during the day.

"It was all about highlighting the importance of play in children's lives and needless to say the children all had a really good time," said nursery manager Emma Brett.

"Play is how children learn so it is crucial they have those experiences in their early years.

"It is the first time we have held a special play day and after its success is certainly something we will look at doing again in the future."

HARLOW FIELDS: From giggles to guffaws, it was laughter all the way when the Tendring Road school received a visit from mirth makers the Laughter Specialists.

The clown doctors prescribed a dose of music, magic, comedy, songs and puppets to entertain the children, some of whom became entertainers themselves.

The Laughter Specialists entertain children who are ill and those with special needs.

"It was absolutely fantastic," said founder and entertainer

Annie Aris. "There were over 40 children and everyone had fun and got involved with the show. In fact some even stole the show – they were brilliant!"

"That is exactly what our work is all about, helping children to build their self-confidence."

KIDDI CARU Donning mini mortarboards, the nursery children officially marked the end of their pre-school years with their own special graduation ceremony.

The ceremony was the culmination of days of preparations including banner and cake making, blowing up balloons and designing their own T-shirts for the occasion.

Nursery manager Aimee Hume said a few tears were shed as mums and dads watched their young ones walk down a red carpet to collect graduation certificates.

"It was lovely to see them all getting their certificates and some proud parents were quite emotional," she said.

"We all had a great time and all the children are extremely excited to be going off to big school soon.

"Everyone at Kiddi Caru wishes them well and good luck at their new schools, we are sure they will do brilliantly."

OPENING the new season at The Old Vic, John Crowley directs The Playboy Of The Western World starring Niamh Cusack, Ruth Negga and Robert Sheehan.

J. M. Synge's irreverent comic masterpiece was first produced in 1907 and was met with rioting and controversy when it premiered, sending shock waves across the dramatic world.

This week we are giving you the chance to win one of five pairs of tickets to this production.

Set in a small village on the west coast of County Mayo, The Playboy Of The Western World tells the story of lonely dreamer Christy Mahon who takes refuge in Michael Flaherty's pub claiming that he has killed his oppressive father.

Christy beguiles the locals with his tall and dramatic tale of bravery in the face of danger and becomes an instant hero. He both charms the village women and captures the heart of the landlord's fiery daughter, Pegeen.

However, when his tale turns out to be less straightforward than they first thought, the simmering violence of the villagers comes to light.

To be in with a chance of winning our great competition, simply answer the question on the coupon and return it to: The Minister in town to turn spotlight on Zone success

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW's successful bid to become one of the UK's flagship Enterprise Zones was capped by a visit to the town by Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government.

Eric Pickles was the minister responsible for making the final decision on the locations of the 13 zones which aim to stimulate economic growth by offering subsidised business rates, relaxed planning regulations and high-speed broadband.

Mr Pickles was given a tour of Arrow Electronics – one of the private companies involved in the Harlow bid – and shown plans for the proposed 126-acre silicon valley.

Harlow Council chief executive Malcolm Morley and councillor Russell Perrin, the authority's portfolio holder for regeneration, joined the minister on his visit.

Mr Pickles told the Star: "The decision to award Harlow its own Enterprise Zone will encourage new businesses to flock to the site creating jobs and driving prosperity. The high tech nature of the bid will put Harlow on the map, leading on innovation and research."

Cllr Perrin added: "This is a major boost to the local economy and a major opportunity for residents seeking work as this status has the potential to create up to 5,000 new jobs.

"The enterprise zone will also provide new opportunities for existing businesses to increase trade with the new companies that will settle here as a result.

"This bid represents a major part of this administration's aim to transform the fortunes of Harlow and I am proud that we have been successful in our bid".

The true meaning of a sparrow's tweets

MANY of us wake up every day to the sound of birdsong, but have you ever wondered what our feathered friends are tweeting about?

A fascinating new study commissioned by a Canadian university has discovered that chirping sparrows are actually trading insults.

Researchers claim that what sounds like harmonious song is actually the attempts of male birds to sound tough.

And, like humans, most of the boasting and trading of insults is done to impress the girls!

"Song sharing among sparrows is actually an aggressive behaviour, just like flinging insults back and forth," lead researcher Janet Lapierre from the University of Western Ontario in Canada told reporters.

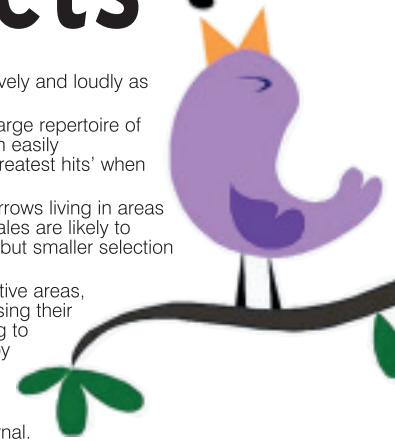

"The birds sing as aggressively and loudly as possible," she added.

Although sparrows have a large repertoire of songs, males will belt out an easily recognisable selection of 'greatest hits' when looking for a mate.

According to the study, sparrows living in areas with a high population of males are likely to perform a more aggressive but smaller selection of songs.

Those living in less competitive areas, however, are more likely to sing their own songs rather than trying to compete with other males by chirping the same tunes as them.

The research has now been published in a scientific journal.

The works will be on display until Saturday.

Bluetones in town for the last time as Square hosts farewell tour

1996 was a mixed bag for the music industry. Take That broke millions of ickle girls' hearts by announcing they were to split but any hopes this would signal the beginning of the end for pre-fab powder-pop were immediately quashed by the meteoric rise of The Spice Girls.

But for grizzled Britpop survivors, '96 will be fondly remembered as the year The Bluetones scored their biggest hit with the anthemic Slight Return, which was only kept off the top of the charts by oddball one-hit-wonders Babylon Zoo.

It was to be the west London band's only top 10 single, but it is a song that has stood the test of time - a masterful blast of Stone Roses-esque jingle-jangle psych-pop that still sends shivers down the spine.

The four-piece's debut album, Expecting To Fly, went straight in at number one in February of the same year but since then the Tones have struggled to repeat their early success despite releasing a further five albums. Fast forward 15 years to today and the band have decided to call it a day - but not before they drop into The Square one last time tomorrow (Friday) as part of their farewell tour.

The band first played the Fourth Avenue venue on the same bill as the mighty Supergrass back in 1994 and frontman Mark Morriss has recently returned to perform two solo shows.

His fondness for The Square has led to this rare - and final - opportunity to catch the full band in action. They will be playing a career-spanning set of their greatest hits (and a few rarities) as a thank-you to their loyal fans.

Doors open at 8pm and support on the evening comes from hotly-tipped indie tykes The Brights and the laid-back, lo-fi folk-rock grooves of My Second Head.

Some tickets are still available from www.thesquareharlow.com or direct from the box office on (01279) 305000 priced at £15.

There's nowhere to run if Death comes calling

FINAL DESTINATION 5 (3D & 2D) certificate 15, 1h32m

EVEN if you've only seen one of the previous four Final Destination films, you'll already know one thing – you can't cheat Death.

The fifth film in the spectacularly gory franchise doesn't stray from that formula, introducing another batch of characters whose time has come.

First up is affable Sam (Nicholas D'Agosto) who dreams of becoming a chef while working in the office of a paper manufacturer. He's been tasked with organising a staff away day for his colleagues, including on-off girlfriend Molly (Emma Bell), best friends Peter (Miles Fisher) and Nathan (Arlen Escarpeta), sleazy Isaac (P J Byrne) and Olivia (Jacqueline MacInnes Wood).

All is well until the bus they're travelling on gets stuck in traffic on a suspension bridge. As we've come to expect from Final Destination films, the hero of the piece has a premonition about impending doom and almost as soon as Sam ushers his nearest and dearest on the coach, the group and hundreds of other commuters are trapped in the middle of an unholy bridge collapse.

In his vision Sam does his best to get his friends to safety but with little success, only Emma making it to solid ground. In the space of a few minutes, he and his closest friends are wiped out in some of the most graphic death scenes you'll see this year.

As the daydream comes to an end,

Sam realises what he saw in his mind's eye and hurries his friends off the bus. Sceptical at first, they soon start following when cracks appear in the road and all make it to safety.

And there we have it, Death has been cheated once again. And Death doesn't like that.

Very quickly Sam and his friends are under threat and over the next hour or so the viewer is treated to some truly memorable gore. It won't be for everyone, granted, but it's hard not to be impressed by the new ways in which the characters are sent on their way.

As with the other four Final Destination films, the real beauty is in the set up. Before their death, each of the characters is placed in an environment packed full of hazards and potentially lethal obstacles, leading the audience to imagine what gruesome event might happen, only for the actual incident to be something you'd never have thought of. It's a clever trick.

The second of the five films to shot in 3D, the extra dimension is no mere afterthought and does add something to the horrific action scenes, while the final scene's nod to the first film of the series is a clever twist.

Ultimately, Final Destination 5 is a badly acted, terribly scripted film, inhabited by unlikeable, forgettable characters. To say that, however, is to miss the point.

Approached for what it is – a series of over-the-top, laughter-inducing, gruesome death scenes pieced together by an implausible plot – and this might just be the best Final Destination yet.

The Inbetweeners Movie As Will (Simon Bird), Neil (Blake Harrison) Jay (James Buckley) and Simon (Joe Thomas) wave goodbye to Rudge Park Comprehensive, they decide they need a proper lads' holiday in Crete to reinvent themselves. Of course, nothing goes according to plan – their accommodation is a hell-hole, they wind up in the saddest club on the resort strip, get into scrapes, get drunk and then get naked.

Cowboys & Aliens Jake Lonergan (Daniel Craig) wakes in the desert with a gunshot wound, a large metal bracelet on his wrist and no memory of who he is or how he came to be in the dirt. He struts into town and is unmasked as a killer with a sizeable bounty on his head. Arrested by the sheriff and bound for prison alongside Percy Dolarhyde (Paul Dano), Jake makes his escape from the prison coach during an attack by extraterrestrial craft. Percy is abducted and his father, Woodrow (Harrison Ford) vows to rescue his son, press ganging Jake into accompanying his posse on the perilous mission to track down the aliens.

Rise Of The Planet Of The Apes Scientist Will Rodman (James Franco) is working on a cure for Alzheimer's and tests his latest serum on chimpanzees, noticing dramatic increases in intelligence and brain activity in the primate subjects. But when he is ordered to shut down the project he smuggles a baby chimp out of the lab and raises the infant at home. But he comes to learn that meddling with nature has repercussions.

Spy Kids: All The Time In The World (2D) Retired spy Marissa Wilson Cortez (Jessica Alba) is called back into action to stop the evil Timekeeper from taking over the world and invites her stepchildren along for the adventure.

The Smurfs (3D & 2D) When the evil wizard Gargamel chases the tiny blue Smurfs out of their village, they tumble through a portal joining their magical world to ours. They end up in New York from where they must find their way home.

Your stars with Patrick Arundell to guide you through the week ahead

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20
As the sky takes on a practical dimension, making life run more smoothly becomes your mantra. And you can find yourself very much in a "can do" frame of mind. This can see you get on better with colleagues, and positive professional contacts can lead to a new opening. Home changes can also shape up extremely well. Call me for your in-depth forecast...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
Sublime pleasures await you as the heavens conjure up the most magical of possibilities. You can amaze people with your confidence and versatility. You can also radiate the most potent of auras. This can draw new love possibilities your way - if you can let go of the inner doubts that have plagued you at times this month. Call me for your love scope in full...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
If the pace of your life has been relentless Gemini, even if you have been enjoying attention this week, but a yourself, home can become something of a sanctuary now, or at least stepping back to pick up the threads with the important people in your life. Although you love stimulation, your abode can be healing, as can any face or place which is familiar. Call now for more advice...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
Your personal communication takes on an added warmth. This can see you very much in the mood to venture out and have fun. However, you can also start to think about learning new skills, or if you have any that you can share, to impart them to others. Your love life can be transformed by deep and meaningful conversations. Call me for your love scope in full...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
One plan that has stalled can be revived Leo, or you may decide to head in a completely new direction. Your appreciation of the good things in life can give you an avid fascination with anything that is stamped with quality. This is good because it can see you become much more discriminating around your spending decisions. Call for your financial forecast...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
You start to bring a tricky phase to an end - a time when you may have felt so acutely sensitive, that you have felt low in energy and drive. Other people's opinions have almost counted for too much, but now you can regain your confidence. The wonderful thing is that many new and exciting possibilities are set to unfold. Call for your in-depth forecast...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23
One friendship can be going very well, in fact, there may even be a twinkle of attraction goes beyond being buddies. If so, by the end of this week, you may find yourself spending some quality and private time together. However, someone from your past can also feature in your thoughts. Will you check out where they are? Call me for your love scope in full...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22
As one door shuts, so another can spring open, so try to take any professional setbacks in your stride. And anyway, as the week unfolds you are going to find yourself in the mood to enjoy yourself much more. A group that you feel comfortable within you and are based around a mutual interest can be at the heart of this fun vibe. Call for more news and astral advice...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21
More worldly issues can start to compete for your attention this week, but a long running saga can also be cleared up which can see you let out a sigh of relief. A financial or work situation can, with a mix of application and your natural get to it energy, take on firmer foundations. If you can rein in extravagances, do. Call for your financial scope in full...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20
You can find yourself up for a change of scene. If this is not easy, well, you always have your imagination to fall back upon, and it can be vivid. This can also be a significant time for relationships of all kinds and those that are positive can go from strength to strength. You can be a cautious person but now you can cut a real dash. Call for more astral advice...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19
Finally this week, a relationship tangle can get resolved. This may mean that you agree to disagree as much as to get any closer, but it can be better for you to get this out the way and move on. Financially and business wise, you are entering a much more productive and hopeful time. Someone can also prove to be very generous. Call me for more news...

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20
Something which started as a petty glitch has actually become much more of a problem. Yet it can all work out, though your nerves may still be jangling from this. Fortunately, relationship wise this week holds rich promise, not least, because the vibes that flow back to you can seem that much sweeter. A new love set to unfold. Call me for your love scope...

Newhall homes at significant savings

WITH the August Bank Holiday weekend on the horizon, 15 plots at North Chase on the award-winning Newhall development in Harlow have been reduced significantly as part of a special offer.

North Chase is a phase of Newhall designed by four leading architects from the UK and Europe.

It has already won many prizes for its design and concept and, as the developers promise, "these homes all have style and design at their heart."

All of the properties have been finished to a high specification and are available to move into immediately.

The Garden Villa at Plot 37 is a three-bedroom detached with an en-suite as well as a study/fourth bedroom and is now available for £350,000. This represents a saving of £70,000 but only for a limited period.

A selection of apartments have also been reduced, including a one-bedroom property in the Corner Place building. Priced at £165,000, it is well worth a look.

And in the landmark building the ZigZag, Plot 30 is a two-bedroom, two-bathroom apartment which is now available for only £245,000, again a saving of £70,000.

Why not use this Bank Holiday weekend to visit North Chase and see for yourself the properties, the specifications and superb location available at these reduced prices.

You can also take a closer look at all the properties on the website of estate agents Howick and Brooker at www.hbproperty.co.uk or at www.northchase.co.uk.

Tracey Waples
Property Editor

INVITED over to friends for supper last weekend, we were delighted to be able to eat outdoors – one of the too-rare perks of our not so predictable summer evenings.

Having sold their house and not sure quite where or what they want to buy next, our friends are renting a contemporary property. One of its show stopping features is the multi-tiered decking area, complete with outdoor music system, lighting and hot tub.

Set into a gently inclining slope, it is protected on all sides by a short retaining wall which has been topped with well-thought out planting. The effect on a balmy August evening is sublime and needless to say our friends aren't short of others willing to help them share the experience of a delicious al fresco meal in good company.

Decking can certainly divide opinion and after the glut of gardening programmes just a few years ago, which seemed to encourage decking anywhere and everywhere, it seems to have fallen in popularity. Or has it? UK technical and advisory body, the Timber Decking Association says that demand is strong and as many people decide against moving house in these uncertain economic times, projects such as creating a decked area grow in popularity.

"Customers view the deck as an extension of their home" said a TDA spokesman.

Locally, timber specialist Andrew Banks, based in Eastwick says he has seen greater use of hardwood decking as oppose to softwood which seemed to pop up everywhere at one time.

"Decking was huge several years ago but when the economic climate changed demand slowed" said Andrew. "Now people are installing decking but with good quality hardwood. If they're going to spend money they want to know it will last."

Installed properly, decking could add value to your home. We might not be having the summer weather we'd dreamed of, but put an extra sweater on and get out there and enjoy outdoor living while you can!

WHAT EVERYBODY OUGHT TO KNOW ABOUT CONTRACTS

Firstly, what is a contract? Typically known as a "sole agency contract" an Estate Agent will endeavour to obtain signed authority, which will require you to use only the agent named on the agreement for a certain amount of time.

This can be anywhere between 8-20 weeks.

You then have an agent who has complete control and can decide how hard they work.

At Sapphire we do not tie you into sole agency agreements.

So, if you are thinking of selling, sell with freedom and complete control and use Sapphire.

01279 401902Can I Borrow Your Machete?

Bank holiday weekend is here and so is the rain. In many ways our English weather is similar to our property market.

One day it's bright and sunny and everything looks wonderful then you look away for a moment and it's bucketing down with grief and aggravation and you ask yourself "what's it all about?"

We have had an interesting week. Paul was called out to see a property in Old Harlow which has not been occupied for the best part of twenty years!

He needed a machete to get to the front door and was unable to get into the back garden as the trees and bushes were pressing on the back wall!

The rubbish inside was indescribable, it was completely uninhabitable. But our 'new client' said, and this is true "a couple of quid, for a bit of paint to splash around along with a couple of hours in the garden and it will be fine!"

Getting back to the property market here in Harlow, the signs are good, it is improving and we are so confident that we are enlarging our sales team from September to ensure we have the best team in town to help you buy and sell your home.

Finally, well done to Harlow Cricket Club in winning promotion last weekend, great effort boys!

New wave of Beetle-mania

By Iain Dooley

VOLKSWAGEN is pitching its new Beetle as a car for the 21st century. In common with so many fashionable items from the past, it would be appropriate to view this as a reboot of the classic automotive icon. Of course, Volkswagen has been here before. 1998 saw the release of the then all-new Beetle which was an attempt at faithfully reproducing the earnest, everyday attributes of its groundbreaking predecessor.

The Beetle is the cornerstone of the Volkswagen family, and is largely why the German firm is persisting with a modern day version. And it appears to have learnt something from the success of the competition.

As such, this 'new' Beetle is being promoted with a sportier edge and a greater emphasis on lifestyle and pop culture. The car itself is little bigger than the 1998 car – it's a fraction longer and wider – while it's not as tall but more streamlined in profile thanks to a longer bonnet and steeper inclined windscreen.

Carrying capacity is up, with occupants fore and aft benefiting from more room, while boot space has increased. Three petrol and one diesel unit will power UK cars. At launch, the choice will be between a 1.2 TSI 105 horsepower unit connected to a seven-speed DSG gearbox plus a 1.4 TSI, 160 horsepower lump and six-speed manual gearbox. Later in 2012 will come the choice of a manual version of that 1.2 petrol motor, a 1.6-litre TDI diesel and a range-topping 2.0-litre TSI petrol unit packing 200 horsepower.

To reinforce the Beetle's new-found sporty character, both the 2.0-litre car and the 1.4 variant feature Volkswagen's trick XDS differential to boost grip and stability at speed.

The previous car's bud vase might have disappeared but this Beetle's cabin remains sufficiently different from anything else Volkswagen makes to earn it its stripes. The cabin itself is roomy enough up front, with just enough space in the back for adults if the journey isn't too long. The sloping roof is the reason for this, although children won't feel cramped, making the Beetle an interesting family car alternative.

As with all modern Volkswagens, the Beetle isn't short of toys or safety kit. The company has decided to pitch the car higher this time round and sat-nav, climate control, premium audio, leather and a panoramic glass roof all appear on the options list. The list of standard kit is good, too, with the likes of air-con, DAB radio, alloy wheels, Bluetooth and parking sensors spread across the three trim levels.

Most seasoned observers will bristle at the use of the word 'sporty' in the context of something distinctly unsporting, and while Volkswagen is keen to promote the Beetle as such it's fair to say it's a more willing participant than its older cousin.

Urban motoring duties do much to highlight the car's agility and willingness to change direction. It's not a small car, yet this never proves a handicap around town and the slightly raised seating position helps boost forward visibility.

Away from the city the Beetle acquits itself well to demands of faster roads and more challenging corners. You're never going to be pushing this as hard as you would a Scirocco, but it's good to know that a brisk pace can be an entertaining one.

Tested in flagship 200bhp, 2.0-litre turbo petrol guise complete with six-speed DSG gearbox, the speed is easily controllable and you never feel that the engine overshadows the car's abilities.

Furthermore, if the performance of the less powerful engines in other VW products is anything to go by, units such as the 1.2 TSI and 1.6 TDI won't disgrace the Beetle either.

Judging from the promotional material generated to support this new Beetle and the positive attitude of Volkswagen's executives, it's clear that they now have a better understanding of the car and how it can fit into the lives of prospective owners.

First hand experience proves that it's a more engaging and rewarding experience than before and a genuine head-turner, while the various styling cues offer a more clearly defined link with the car that started it all off.

Could this be history repeating itself? Only time will tell.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

STEPHANIE Fuller has been selected to represent Essex in the Eastern Inter Counties meeting at Cambridge on September 4.

She was picked after winning the senior women's hammer event with a throw of 33.79m when she represented Harlow Athletic Club in a Southern Women's League meeting at Braintree at the weekend.

Stephanie (24) also won the discus event (23.80m) at Braintree.

She will be joined at Cambridge for the Eastern Counties meeting by Harlow AC colleague Dave Bauer and the Mark Hall Sportcentre manager Mark Harris, who will be respectively competing in the discus and 800m.

Harlow AC came fifth out of seven clubs with 103 points in the Southern Women's League meeting, which was marked by strong winds and rain.

There were three other wins for Harlow athletes.

Alicia McArdell (13), won the A-string U-15 girls 800m easily in 2 minutes and 28.4 seconds.

Rosie Poole (12) won

GLOVE-LY JUBBLY: Former champ Julius Francis is heading to Harlow (s)

Boxers hooked for launch of fight club

FORMER European and British boxing champions are set to help a Harlow gym relaunch its award-winning fight club.

Danny Williams, who knocked out former World Heavyweight Champion Mike Tyson in 2004, will join Julius Francis, James Cook and Ian Napa at Ripped Gym at The Stow on Sunday September 4 for the relaunch.

Starting at 1pm and concluding at 3pm, the event is being hosted by Great Britain's Jason Matthews, a former professional boxer and WBO Middleweight Champion.

Ripped Gym, which won the Combat Zone Gym of the Year 2010, now aims to create a fit for purpose boxing academy for Harlow.

Among those attending are Cook, the former European and British Super Middleweight Champion.

He was awarded an MBE in 2007 for his outstanding work with the young people of Hackney's notorious Murder Mile.

Francis is a former British Heavyweight Champion boxer, while Napa is the former European Bantamweight Champion.

"Everyone is invited along to this open day where you can get the chance to talk, train, take pictures and pick the brains of these greats on their techniques," said a Ripped Gym spokesman.

"This is a rare chance to catch all these boxing stars on one day in the same place. It's a day not to be missed."

For further information contact Jason Matthews on 0790 4855 111 or Ripped Gym on (01279) 433043.

Runner breaks HRC record

A 12-YEAR-old Harlow Running Club record was broken as Steve Murtagh shone in the second of the Stevenage 5K series of races.

Murtagh was 12th out of 163 finishers and 1st veteran 40 in a fantastic time of 17 minutes and 5 seconds - a new HRC Vet 45 record.

The old record had stood since 1999.

He was followed home by three other Harlow colleagues.

Jamie Jephcott was 43rd in 18.55, Adrian Fell was 46th in a personal best time for the distance of 19.22 and John Tennant was 57th and 1st Vet 60 in 19.58.

Hunter shoots to victory as centre reopens

ten pin bowling

DAVE Hunter hit five strikes in a row as he won the annual singles competition at the newly-reopened ten-pin bowling centre in Harlow town centre.

Thirty-one bowlers were eager to try out Harlow Bowl for the first time since it reopened.

Hunter scored 234 and a handicap score of 630 to finish ahead of second-placed Mike Illett (handicap score of 601).

In third place was Roger Dyer who finished with an average of 178 (handicap 595).

The trophies were donated by Chris Doe, a past tournament winner at Harlow Bowl, who due to recent surgery was unable to compete in this tournament.

After a break of more than a year, league bowling will return to Harlow Bowl in the week beginning Monday September 26, when seven divisions are due to commence action in the 2011-12 season.

Striker on the way for Hawks?

The Hawks boss has lost James Bunn to a groin injury, while Lewis Perkins quit last week to try and play at a higher level.

Chapman has told the Star the name of the player he hopes to sign, but wants to keep his identity under wraps. "He is a top, top forward. There is a chance that we could get him," Chapman said.

Harlow fell to a narrow defeat at Chatham, after taking the lead through Danny Brown.

He scored on 41 minutes when his looping header found the net from Jon Docker's right-wing cross.

But the hosts were level two minutes later.

The Kent side were awarded a controversial free-kick when Mark Taylor was adjudged to have committed a foul just inside the hosts' half.

This was pumped up to Lee Hayles and his shot went in off the bar.

Chatham snatched a winner midway through the second half.

Joe Fuller struck with a shot from 12 yards out after poor Harlow defending.

Harlow had made only one change from the side that beat Romford on Saturday as James Peagram came in for the injured Bunn.

But Osagie is primarily setting his sights low in South Korea.

"Coming here and getting through the minimum of one round and seeing if I can mix it in the semi-finals is my goal really," he added.

"I guess you do always look beyond the first race, but there is not a lot of point thinking about the other two if you don't get through that first one.

"All I'm thinking about now is getting through that first one and working out a recovery plan for that and nothing more."

Boss unhappy as Town edge win

Harlow Tn 1, Romford 0

Ryman League, division one

By ALAN SCOTT

DANNY Chapman was not happy despite seeing his side edge a narrow victory in their opening Ryman League match of the season against Romford.

The Harlow Town boss said: "I'm pleased that we got three points. I am pleased that we kept a clean sheet. But the overall performance I am not pleased with.

"We did not keep the ball well enough in their half. That's something we have to improve on quickly if we are going to succeed. We need to be more ruthless."

Compounding Harlow's desperate need for a new striker to partner Lee Roache, experienced forward James Bunn went off with a groin injury after just 23 minutes.

Chapman has already lost former Charlton Athletic professional Lewis Perkins who decided he wanted to play at a higher level after a one-match cameo for Hawks the previous week.

Saturday's match at Barrows Farm was very much a game of two halves, with Romford coming back into the match after the break. However, they were unable to break down the resolute Hawks defence.

Harlow were out of the traps well and were denied a penalty early on when Roache was upended by defender James Ishmail.

ON THE ATTACK: Lee Roache, left, looks for a way through the Romford rearguard at Barrows Farm on Saturday (HSP0763259)

Roache forced a good save from visitors' keeper Lamar Joseph-Johnson before Bunn pulled up with an injury. He was replaced by Steve Ferguson, normally a winger, as both strikers James Peagram and Rhys Henry were left out of the starting squad of 16.

The hosts broke the deadlock on 28 minutes when Roache nodded in at the near post from Mark Taylor's superb left-wing cross.

Matt Gillingham went close for Romford with a long-range effort, but it was Harlow who came closer to scoring in injury-time.

A lovely move involving Leon Lalite and Ferguson ended with Roache's close-range strike hitting the foot of the left post.

Romford were a different proposition after the break and Hawks keeper Adam Rafis made a great stop from Duru Chuck on 53 minutes.

Defender Lee Gledhill was introduced near the hour as a right wing-back as Chapman opted for Mancini-style tactics to thwart dominant Romford.

It worked as Romford's chances were limited, until the late stages.

On 87 minutes, an error by young Hawks defender Jack Haverson let Romford sub Kurt Smith through with just Rafis to beat but the keeper did well and made a great block.

Moments later Ryan Kirby showed all his experience at the back to deny Romford, whose frustration showed with four players being booked in total as Harlow held on, to give Chapman a winning start to the campaign.

Defeat leaves title bid on brink of failure

Farnham 207-5, Harlow Tn 184

Farnham won by 23 runs

Herts & Essex Cricket League, division one

A GOLDEN opportunity to claim top spot in division one was missed by Harlow Town as they lost narrowly at Farnham in their penultimate game.

Table-topping Epping Foresters and second-placed Theydon Bois both lost last Saturday, but Town's defeat leaves them in third spot 14 points behind the leaders.

To win the title, Town must win their last game at home to Langley this Saturday and hope Foresters and Theydon Bois slip up.

Twenty-six points are awarded for a win and if a side does not win they can get batting and bowling points. Four points are awarded for an abandonment if there is a rain.

The match last Saturday was reduced to 25 overs per side because of the wet weather.

Farnham batted first and exploited wayward bowling and poor fielding as they scored at more than eight an over in totalling 207-5.

Nick Prowse hit an impressive 81.

In reply, the visitors slumped to 29-3 and the game already looked lost.

But Ashley Alderson (47) and Charlie Coleman (71 not out) kept Town in with a chance, putting on 104 for the fifth wicket.

However, with fielders on the boundary Town could not push past the required run rate and fell narrowly short.

In division two, Harlow Town II (107-9) lost by 60 runs against Matching Green (167-4).

Harlow Town III (154-9) lost to Albury (156-5) by five wickets in division five.

In division three, Potter Street had scored 4-0 before their match at Woodford Wells IV was abandoned because of rain.

Sarries parade league trophy

THE Aviva Premiership trophy was paraded at Harlow Rugby Club by holders Saracens.

Saracens won the trophy when they beat Leicester 22-18 in a thrilling final at Twickenham in May and youngsters from Harlow got the chance to be photographed with it.

Some parents also had their pictures taken!

It was one of the highlights of a two-day rugby skills camp for more than 50 children aged between 6 and 16. It was hosted by Harlow Rugby Club and organised by Saracens.

SARACENS' PARADE: Youngsters line up with Saracens community coaches and the Aviva Premiership trophy at Harlow Rugby Club (HSP0762075)

For six hours each day youngsters ran, tackled, and scrummaged under the guidance of Saracens' community coaches. The purpose of the camp was to extend the knowledge and skills of existing young rugby players and introduce the game to those who had never tried it before. "There were many tired, but happy players at the end of each day."

Saracens work hard in the community to unearth future rugby stars and these camps are part of their process in identifying talent. Harlow Rugby Club secretary and membership secretary Ken Potter said: "The camp proved so successful that Saracens and Harlow Rugby Club are planning another in the not too distant future."

Now for the title

Winner-takes-all clash awaits Harlow CC after clinching promotion

Harlow 201-8,

Westcliff-on-Sea 135-7

Harlow won by six runs

Shepherd Neame Essex League, division two

LUKE Heskett's Harlow side will be looking to go one step further and clinch the Shepherd Neame Essex League division two title by beating Southend-on-Sea at home this Saturday.

The Marigolds side clinched promotion with a narrow home win over Westcliff-on-Sea five days ago and are now in second place on 235 points and cannot be caught by the third-placed side, Wickford, who are on 201 points.

Harlow's game against Southend in two days will be their last one as the scheduled one against Walthamstow in nine days' time will not take place.

Walthamstow were expelled from the League in July after they falsified information to allow an overseas cricketer to play for them and Harlow will be awarded 20 points for this match.

HAPPY DAYS: It's all smiles for Harlow after they beat Westcliff-on-Sea to clinch promotion to division one in Luke Heskett's first season in charge (s)

Heskett has belied his young years and impressed in his first year in charge after replacing Jason McNally who quit for Saracens Herts League minnows Ware.

Heskett said: "We have not been reliant on one or two players. This is a fantastic achievement that we can be very proud of, in which everyone played their part."

"There were a lot of youngsters in the side this year who can be very proud of their achievements. We can just go out and enjoy the game against Southend. If we can win it, it will be the icing on the cake."

Batting first against Westcliff, Harlow reached 127-3 from 36 overs with useful knocks coming from Haris Afridi (24) and Ahmed Khawaja (21), before rain stopped play for 90 minutes.

Under League rules the innings (50 overs) had to be completed when play resumed.

Shortly after the resumption, Rehman Ahmed was out for 64 but Harlow managed to score 78 runs off the last 14 overs.

Andy McGarry (28) and Luke Heskett (16) played good knocks.

There were only 26 overs left and under League rules Westcliff chased a reduced target of 142. This took into account the fact they had all 10 wickets albeit in a shortened innings.

In-form Harlow seamer Nicky Baxter took three early wickets before Luke Heskett snaffled three in his first two overs to leave the visitors on 48-5.

Sam Weller (47) and Peter Abbott (25) threatened to spoil the party, taking the score to 92 before Afridi had the latter caught by young wicket-keeper Andre Riddell for 25.

Khawaja bowled three tight overs before McGarry restricted the last over to just five runs to spark celebrations for the Marigolds side.

Osagie into right gear for World Champs

ANDREW Osagie has compared his accelerating athletics career to that of a long car journey as he prepares to make his maiden senior outdoor World Championships appearance in Daegu, South Korea.

Having taken up athletics relatively late, aged 15, the Harlow-based 800m ace has made significant strides since making his international debut for Great Britain at the European Under-23 Championships in 2009.

On that occasion in Lithuania the 23-year-old failed to make it out of the heats, but he didn't have to wait long to make his first senior appearance in British colours at the 2010 World Indoor Championships.

Osagie, of Northbrooks, reached the semi-finals in Qatar back then, a performance he repeated at the Commonwealth Games in India later in the year before his first major final appearance at March's European Indoor Championships in Paris.

Despite finishing an agonising fourth, the Harlow Athletic Club member showed he is making progress and to prove it he ended Michael Rimmer's five-year reign as national champion last month to book a trip to Daegu. The World Championships start this Saturday.

Only the outdoor European Championships and Olympic Games are left on Osagie's major international to-do list - however, he admits he is in no rush to complete the set. "I'm ticking the boxes off now in terms of major championships," said Osagie. "It's kind of like when you're on a long car journey and you've got the tick sheet about whether you've seen a cow or a tractor. "It feels good and my coach [Craig Winrow] thinks I can go quite far and I think all I can be is confident, although I don't want to set any targets or times in terms of championships."

ON YOUR MARKS: Andrew Osagie in his GB vest as he prepares for the World Championships in South Korea (s)

"I just want to get into that bracket where I can look at my profile and it says 'that's a world class athlete'. That to me is where I want to be and to be competing with the best in the world."

"I have done the World and European indoors, as well as the Commonwealth Games, and I made my first senior final at the European indoors this year which was great."

"Just making the teams now with current World Champions and with people who are going for World medals is the goal, the aim and everything for me at the moment."
